About Lora Fairclough

Casa de Campo

Lora Fairclough GOLF

Welcome! I’m a professional golfer, past Solheim Cup player and passionate coach helping others enjoy and improve their golf.

I turned professional in 1991 after a successful amateur career winning several national titles and representing GB & Ireland. For more than two decades, I competed around the world. I went on to win four Ladies European Tour titles including the English Open and European Masters and have proudly represented Europe in the Solheim Cup.

After retiring from full-time tournament golf, I transitioned into coaching - a natural next step that allows me to share everything I’ve learned, with a big focus on enjoying the game and building confidence.

My Coaching Philosophy

My coaching style is relaxed, supportive, and designed to help you get the best out of your game. I believe the most powerful coach is you - so I help you understand what’s already working, arm you with the tools to gently adjust what’s not, and most importantly, clear out the mental clutter that can hold you back.

Don’t worry if you’re travelling solo. Everyone is made to feel welcome, and the shared love of golf quickly brings people together.

Coaching Holidays

I’ve been running ladies-only golf holidays for over a decade taking small groups to beautiful golf destinations all over the world such as Mauritius, Japan, South Africa, Greece, and Turkey.

Whether it be a week-long coaching focused trip in Europe or an exotic golfing escape that combines both the culture and unique experiences of the destination you will be sure to play some of the world’s finest golf courses. But these trips are more than just a chance to play golf - they’re relaxed, friendly getaways where you can unwind, meet like-minded women, and return home feeling refreshed and inspired.

Don’t worry if you’re travelling solo. Everyone is made to feel welcome, and the shared love of golf quickly brings people together.

What You Can Expect

- Fully hosted holiday by a former LET and Solheim Cup player.
- Small group and personalised coaching (per specific holiday itinerary).
- A warm, relaxed environment where you can learn at your own pace.

- Carefully chosen resorts in stunning locations.
- A trip that’s about more than just golf - it’s about connection, confidence and community.
